'BIG FOUR' AGAIN IN SESSION; FOCH PLANNING ACTION IF GERMANS BALK

Blockade of Ports and Occupation of Additional Territory Contemplated if Enemy Refuses to Sign Treaty — Lloyd George Back in Paris.

COUNCIL OF FOUR TO PRESENT THE TREATY

Day or So Will Be Given Over to Explaining Document of 70,000 Words Before Envoys Take It Back to Weimar.

PARIS, April 18.—With the return of David Lloyd George, British Premier, from his visit home, the Council of Four, comprising the British, French and Italian Premiers and President Wilson, resumed its deliberations today. The "Big Four" met in the Paris "White House."

Military experts under the direction of Marshal Foch, have been charged with the drafting of a report on what should be done in the event that Germany refuses to sign the treaty of peace. It is indicated that the methods of coercion which the allies would adopt may include the occupation of more German territory, the blockade of enemy ports and the discontinuance of the dispatch of food supplies to Germany.

The procedure on the arrival of the German plenipotentiaries at Versailles has virtually been decided upon. It will be President Wilson and the Premiers who will hold the first meeting and deliver the treaty, as it is not deemed feasible to have all the allied Powers attend this first session.

Due to arrive April 25.

The actual arrival of the Germans at Versailles, it is stated, is scheduled for Friday night, April 25, but the meeting with the President and Premiers will not be held until Saturday, and may be deferred until Monday.

After the treaty is actually delivered, it is intended to allow adequate time for the Germans to make inquiries concerning the various details before returning to Weimar. This is expected to take about two days, the first day being devoted by the Germans to familiarizing themselves with the terms, and the second day to answering such queries as they may make.

There is no purpose to have this assume the character of a discussion, but merely the elucidation of any points which may assist in obtaining prompt and favorable action when the plenipotentiaries return to Weimar.

It is believed the stay of the plenipotentiaries at Weimar will cover a week, thus bringing them back to Versailles about May 8 to 10.

This, however, is conjectural. For it is dependent on the rapidity of the decisions reached at Weimar.

Premier Lloyd George's declaration in the British Parliament that France had been given full guarantees against a renewal of German attack is the first authoritative statement that such guarantees have been given, and arouses the keenest discussion regarding the nature of the guarantees as affecting the United States and Great Britain. The French report says that the guarantees amount to an alliance, and the semi-official Temps says:

"Premier Lloyd George's language admits of only one meaning. This is that Great Britain and the United States engage to sustain France in case she is again attacked by Germany. Such an alliance is legitimate and necessary. Mr. Lloyd George would not pronounce such words lightly and his announcement is singularly instructive."

Other French reports describe the guarantee as in the nature of a casus foederis, whereby any failure of Germany to carry out the treaty would bring concerted action by France, Great Britain and the United States.

The Council of Four, which framed the guarantee as part of the Rhine settlement, has thus far maintained a rigid silence, except for the formal declaration of Lloyd George.

Japanese Question Up.

Vicount Chinda, of the Japanese delegation arranged for his appearance before the Council of Four on Saturday in the Kiao-Chau question with a view to an adjustment with China, which shall be incorporated in the peace treaty. The American delegates believe that an accord will be reached whereby China will ultimately control Kiao-Chau, with

U. S. IRISH DELEGATION IN CONFERENCE AT WILSON'S HOME

Long Meeting Follows Walsh's Discussion With President—O'Callaghan Not Received.

PARIS, April 18.—Frank P. Walsh, former chairman of the National War Labor Board; former Gov. Edward F. Dunne of Illinois and Michael J. Ryan of Philadelphia, the delegation sent by Irish societies in America to plead the cause of Ireland before the peace conference, had a long conference at the Paris "White House" this morning. The conference was an outgrowth of the interview Walsh had yesterday with President Wilson.

The American delegation to the peace conference has up to this time refused to receive Sean O'Callaghan and George G. Duffy, the delegates of the Irish provisional Government here.

ANARCHIST RULES AT MUNICH; BERLIN MAY INTERVENE

Possibility of Sending Prussian Officers or Troops to Crush Communists Considered.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Wednesday, April 16.—The Bavarian anarchist, Sondheimer, has succeeded in obtaining complete control of the New Communist Government in Munich, according to advices received here from the Bavarian capital.

The German national Government is considering seriously the sending of Government troops, or at least German general staff officers, to aid in the relief of Munich from the communist forces, although neither the Bavarian nor the German Governments wish to cause such an invasion of state rights if it can be avoided.

The bulk of the Bavarian peasants, it is reported, are still loyal to the government of Premier Hoffman. The peasants' association has issued a declaration asserting that the devastation of the country, the plundering of houses and barns and the murdering of peasants by communist bands have become intolerable. Gandorfer, a leader of a small section of the peasants which went over to the communists, has been arrested by the Hoffman government.

PRESIDENT HAS A BUSY DAY

Receives Someone Every 15 Minutes From 10 A. M. to 5 P. M.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, April 18.—President Wilson devoted the entire day yesterday to a series of appointments, beginning at 10 o'clock, with the Chinese delegation to the peace conference, and ending, after 5 o'clock, with Frank P. Walsh, a member of the delegation sent by Irish societies in America to plead the cause of Ireland.

The program for the day had been planned carefully. The President received someone every 15 minutes. Among those received were a French delegation which wanted to see the President about the left bank of the Rhine; the "Foreign Minister" of Switzerland, a delegate from Chaldeia, two American women labor leaders, the Patriarch of Constantinople, Premier Bratianu of Rumania, Premier Pachitch of Serbia, the Portuguese Minister of Foreign Affairs, and many others who desired to discuss the problems of their countries.

RIVER MEN TO PUT $100,000,000 PLAN UP TO CONGRESS

Project for Improvement of Mississippi, Missouri, Ohio and Illinois Rivers Outlined at Meeting.

TWO REASONS GIVEN FOR PLAN

One Is Need of Route to Sea Other Than by Rail to New York, Other Is Employment for Soldiers.

The temper of the some 250 delegates from 20 states of the Mississippi Valley, as they gathered today for the second day of the session of the Mississippi Valley Waterways Association at Hotel Statler, was to make the plan suggested yesterday by its president, James E. Smith, for the immediate improvement of the Mississippi basin for traffic, the demand of the convention upon Congress.

They also were favorable to the suggestion of Smith that they drop the supplicating attitude with which the valley has approached Congress in waterways matters for 30 years and go to Washington with the threat to attack politically any representative of the 22 states in the valley who fails to cast an aye vote for the plan.

As outlined by Smith and prepared in toto for adoption by the Resolutions Committee, the project is the expenditure within three years of approximately $100,000,000 to make navigable the Mississippi from Minneapolis, the Missouri from Kansas City, the Ohio from Pittsburgh and the Illinois from Chicago.

Two Reasons for Plan.

Smith gave two reasons why this plan should be undertaken at once: The need of an outlet, other than by rail, to New York, for the products of the Mississippi Valley; and the need to send abroad, and the consequent employment which the plan will furnish to returning soldiers, both in actual work on the project and in industries expanded by the creation of this new route to the sea.

As a means of best prosecuting the project, one adopted by Congress, Smith suggested the creation of a waterways commission, separate from all executive branches of the Government. To protect the project, he suggested the creation of a passage of laws by Congress forbidding the railroads to renew the destructive tactics that drove commerce from the rivers—rate cutting to river points.

"Now's the Time," Senator Says.

This latter demand had been strongly endorsed previously in yesterday's session by Senator Kenneth D. McKellar of Tennessee, who told the delegates that they now had the one opportunity of their lives to gain use of the rivers for shipping, pointing out that the Government owned the railroads and such transportation equipment as is now operating on the rivers.

"While the Government does control all three," he said, "we ought to see to it that these three branches are all built up together and co-ordinated. Before the railroads are returned to their owners under what-ever plan Congress may devise, that plan ought to contain a provision that the railroads never again can wipe out inland water transportation. I am not willing to see Congress turn back rail operation to private ownership, until inland water transportation is made the same success as we now purpose making our merchant marine."

Yesterday's session, also, Senator Spencer of Missouri had encouraged the same policy. "If the railroads and waterways do not co-operate," he said, "they will be made to co-operate by the mandate of the people."

Railroads' Attitude.

As is known, the disposition of the railroads is not to encourage the granting of through rates in conjunction with waterways.

Today's program included addresses by Congressman William T. Bland and Henry T. Rainey of Illinois; M. J. Sanders, Federal manager of the Mississippi-Warrior Waterways; and P. H. W. Ross of New York, president of the National Marine League. The afternoon session was to be given over to the election of officers and the passage of resolutions.

Congressman Rainey said that in many respects the project is the most important meeting ever held on the American continent, that it was for the purpose of making a declaration of industrial independence for the Mississippi Valley, which has 75 per cent of the resources of the United States and 52 per cent of the country's population.

The declaration is for the purpose

"POKER HANDS" LAID BARE AT A HEARING OF STATE SENATE

Stark, of Cass, Once Held 4 Jacks in His Hand, 4 Aces in His Hat, 4 Kings Up Sleeve.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 18.—The Senate heard confessions of poker players last night when Senator Stark, of Cass, laid bare at a hearing of the State Senate his participation in a gambling game which testified against others if the game, should be exempt from prosecution.

Sensor Anderson of St. Louis admitted that he played occasionally, and protested that if the bill were passed, nobody would be safe in even a friendly little game.

Sensor Stark of Cass County, told that in one game he held four jacks in his hand, four aces in his hat, four kings in his sleeve and four queens in his shoe. "All's fair in a poker game," he said.

Sensor Cook of Cole County, declaring any intention to confess, told this story: "When I used to live over in Audrain County, the grand jury had one of the prominent citizens before it. The dialogue was about like this:

"Colonel, you play poker?"
"Yes, sir."
"What do you play for?"
"For pleasure, sir, and chips."
"But, Colonel, at the end of the game, you cash these chips for money, don't you?"
"Sir, at the end of the game I never have any chips."
The bill was defeated.

"KID" BECKER'S WILL FILED; ESTATE VALUED AT $200,000

Sixty Per Cent of Bulk of It Left to His Wife and 40 Per Cent to Young Daughter.

The will of Henry ("Kid") Becker, professional gambler, killed by a highwayman last Monday night, was filed for probate today, disposing of an estate estimated by his attorney, Moses N. Sale, to be valued at about $200,000. The will was made mostly in stocks and bonds, including "a good many Liberty Bonds."

Sixty per cent of the bulk of the estate is left to his wife, Jean, and 40 per cent to his 5-year-old daughter, Dorothy. The will was made on July 22, 1916. It contains a clause saying it was made by Becker "while of sound mind and memory, but mindful of the uncertainty of this frail and transitory life."

There are bequests of $5000 to his mother, Mrs. Caroline Becker, of 2048 Russell avenue, and $2000 to a sister, Laura Becker, and $1000 each to two other sisters, Kate Becker and Mrs. Catherine Becker. The latter was executor his cousin, J. A. Becker, of 1046 Ann avenue.

Becker was buried yesterday afternoon in Valhalla Cemetery after funeral services had been conducted at the home, 3165 Russell avenue, by the Rev. W. F. Simon, pastor of the Jesus Evangelical church. The funeral attracted hundreds of persons, including many of Becker's former associates, most of whom did not enter the house, but stood about in groups on the sidewalk. In the house were many friends and neighbors. The floral offerings filled two wagons and a large automobile truck. Many came from friends Becker had made through his racket connections in other cities.

GASOLINE FUMES EXPLODE

Two Men Hurt When Repairing an Automobile.

Victor Moore of 4208A Maryland avenue and Henry Breitschaft, of 2000 Bellevue avenue were cut and burned on the face and arms this afternoon when the gasoline tank of an automobile which they were repairing exploded on the second floor of the Rottemann Automobile and Truck Co. shop at 2648 Locust street.

The gasoline had been drained from the tank, but when the mechanics used a blow torch in soldering it the fumes which remained in the tank caused an explosion which did $200 damage to the building, mostly through the breaking of windows.

Moore and Breitschaft were taken to the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium.

STAKES AND NOT STEAKS CAUSING BUTCHER TROUBLE

Mike Donsiak Drops His Shop for Wrestling Game, Loses $2700 and Also Lands in Jail.

REFEREE OF MATCH NOT GOOD PICKER

By Acting as Stakeholder Donsiak Recovered $1000 of His Money in Manner Which Causes Arrest.

When Mike Donsiak, 2522 North Spring avenue, a butcher, turned from steaks to stakes he got into trouble. The Circuit Attorney has under consideration an application for a warrant against him.

The Circuit Attorney following the arrest of Donsiak, the latter refused to give up $1000 which had been entrusted him as stakeholder in a wrestling match between Fisher and the local wrestling champion of Granite City.

The Circuit Attorney was informed that the money belonged to Jack Fisher, an oil stock salesman and wrestler, who stays at the Plaza Hotel, Thirty-third and Olive streets, when he is in the city, and that it was given to Donsiak as Fisher's part of a wager on a wrestling match between Fisher and the local wrestling champion of Granite City.

When the Granite City wrestler's backer failed to come forward with his $1000, Fisher wanted his money back, but Donsiak refused to give it up. Donsiak claims that in the first place the money was not given to him by Fisher and in the second place that he has a right to keep it because the claims, which Fisher induced him to place a bet.

Donsiak's story, as it was related to the Circuit Attorney, has several interesting angles which go to show how easily some people can be separated from money.

Several weeks ago, according to Donsiak, Fisher induced him to go to Tulsa, Okla., to look over some oil lands. Donsiak took along $2700 which he intended to invest, he said, if he found a "good thing."

While at Tulsa Fisher was engaged to referee a wrestling match between Lloyd Carter of St. Louis and a Tulsa celebrity. Donsiak said that he was advised by Fisher to bet his $2700 on Carter. He said that he agreed to do it, believing that, with Fisher acting as referee, he could not lose. Carter was thrown two out of three times by his opponent, and Donsiak lost his $2700.

Another Match Arranged.

A week later, Donsiak said, Fisher again approached him on a wrestling proposition. This time Fisher wanted to meet a Granite City wrestler and he wanted Donsiak to be stakeholder. The purse was to be $2000. Fisher and the Granite City man each contributing half.

Donsiak met Fisher at the Plaza Hotel, and the latter introduced him to Cecil Mayberry, a moving picture distributor, and a man by the name of Lancaster from Illinois. Fisher told Donsiak, so the Circuit Attorney was informed, that Mayberry had the $1000 which he (Fisher) wished to bet on himself. Lancaster, according to Donsiak, was said to be financing the Granite City man. According to Donsiak, Mayberry handed him $1000, but Lancaster refused to accept Donsiak as a stakeholder.

A contract naming Donsiak as stakeholder had been drawn up and Donsiak said that he would hold the $1000 until a stakeholder agreeable to Lancaster had been named.

Several days later, according to Donsiak, Mayberry called at his home on Spring avenue and asked for the return of the $1000. Donsiak refused to give up the money. He said that although it had been given to him by Mayberry, he had been told by Fisher, and, besides, he said, he had lost $2700 on the Tulsa match he intended to apply the $1000 to that loss. He said that Mayberry became so insistent that he (Donsiak) furnished a revolver to "persuade" him to leave.

The following day Donsiak was arrested by two detectives from police headquarters and before the facts were before the Circuit Attorney, he said, he was presented with a bill by Mayberry for $1240. When he asked what the additional $240 was for, he said, Mayberry informed him that the $10 was for taxicabs he had taken around after him to get back the $1000, and that the detectives ought to have $100 each for arresting you."

Donsiak's attorney, James E. Carroll, informed the Circuit Attorney that, in his opinion, the case should be settled in a civil court. He said that Donsiak was not actuated by criminal intent in retaining the money.

In order to hear from Fisher, who is present out of town, the Circuit Attorney has laid the hearing over until next Tuesday, when Donsiak's bond is returnable.

DRASTIC REPARATION TERMS FOR GERMANY MADE PUBLIC; MUST PAY "ALL SHE CAN"

TEXT OF PEACE TREATY'S REPARATION CLAUSES WHICH BRITISH CENSOR HELD UP

All Germany Can Pay and Restitution in Kind Wherever Possible Provided for in Stringent Terms.

By HERBERT BAYARD SWOPE, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. (Copyright, 1919, by the Press Publishing Co., the New York World. (Delayed by the British Censor.)

PARIS, April 9.—The Post-Dispatch is privileged to present herewith the text of an agreement that has just been approved by the Council of Four on the vital subject of reparations.

Its publication is of prime importance and interest not only because it presents for the first time the official and detailed formula whereby the intricate problem is to be solved, but also because it is reduced to the text—with possibly a few minor changes in dictation—which it will be incorporated in the final peace treaty. From the public will be able to gain for the first time a definite idea of the form the peace treaty will take and how its sections will be constructed.

The composition of the reparations section is typical of the composition of the other sections, such as those dealing with territorial, military, financial and economic issues. They are all being drafted in a simple style and probably will be written in both English and French. It will be observed that the official formula had previously been outlined in these dispatches. It read as follows:

Germany Must Accept Full Responsibility for War.

I. The allied and associated governments affirm and the enemy states accept the responsibility of the enemy states for causing all the loss and damage to which the allied and associated governments and their nationals have been subjected as a consequence of the war imposed upon them by the aggression of the enemy states.

II. The allied and associated governments recognize that the financial resources of the enemy states are not adequate, after taking into account the permanent diminution of such resources which will result from other treaty clauses, to make complete reparation for all such losses and damages. The allied and associated governments, however, require and the German Government undertakes that she will make compensation for all damages done to the civilian population of the allies or associated powers and to their property by her aggression by land, by sea and from the air (as defined in the annexed schedule).

Allied Commission to Determine Amount of Indemnity.

III. The amount of such damages for which compensation is to be made by the enemy states shall be determined by an interallied commission to be instituted in such form as the allied and associated governments shall forthwith determine. This commission shall examine into the claims and give to the enemy states a just opportunity to be heard. The findings of the commission as to the amount of damage defined as above shall be concluded and notified to the enemy states on or before May 1, 1921, as representing the extent of their obligations.

The commission shall concurrently draw up a schedule of payments, prescribing the time and manner for securing and discharging the entire obligation within a period of 30 years from May 1, 1921. In the event, however, that within the period mentioned Germany (the enemy states) shall have failed to discharge her obligation then the balance remaining unpaid may within the discretion of the commission be postponed for settlement in subsequent years or may be handled otherwise in such manner as the allied and associated governments, acting through the commission, shall determine.

To Measure Germany's Capacity to Pay.

IV. The interallied commission shall thereafter from time to time consider the resources and capacity of Germany, and after giving her representatives just opportunity to be heard shall have discretion to extend the date and to modify the form of payments such as are to be provided for in Clause 3, but not to cancel in any amount except with the specific authority of the several governments represented by the commission.

V. In order to enable the allied and associated powers to proceed at once to the restoration of their industrial and economic life pending the full determination of their claims, Germany shall pay in such instalments and in such manner (whether in gold, commodities, ships, securities or otherwise), as the interallied commission may fix, in 1919 and 1920, the equivalent of $5,000,000,000 gold toward the liquidation of the above claims, out of which the expenses of the army of occupation subsequent to the armistice shall first be met, provided that such supplies of food and raw materials as may be judged by the allied and associated governments to be essential and enable Germany to meet her obligations for reparation may with the approval of the allied and associated governments be paid for out of this sum.

VI. The successive instalments paid over by enemy states in satisfaction of above claims shall be divided by the allied and associated governments in proportions which have been determined upon by them in advance on the basis of general equity and of the rights of each.

Restitution in Kind Required Where Possible.

VII. The payments mentioned above do not include restitution in kind or cash taken away, seized or sequestered, nor restitution in kind of animals, objects of every nature and securities taken away, seized or sequestered in cases in which it proves possible to identify them in enemy territory.

VIII. The German Government undertakes to make forthwith the restitution contemplated by Articles III, IV, and V.

IX. The German Government recognizes the commission provided by Article III as the same may be constituted by the allied and associated governments and agrees irrevocably to the possession and exercise by such commission of the power and authority given it by Articles I, II and IV. The German Government will supply to the commission all the information which the commission may require relative to the financial situation and operations of the German Government, its states, municipalities and other governmental subdivisions, and will accord to the members of the commission and its authorized agents the same rights and immunities as are enjoyed in Germany by the duly accredited diplomatic agents of friendly powers. The German Government further agrees to provide for the compensation and expenses of the commission and of such staff as it may employ.

There is to be another clause added to the text setting up a special commission to cover the matter of restoration of stolen articles, of their replacement in kind and also the work done by Germany herself in the devastated regions, inclusive of labor, materials and capital.

As a further part of the formula of the league of nations for 15 years, there will be added an independent after which a plebiscite is to be taken to determine if the district is to be French or German. If Germany is chosen she must repurchase the mines from the French. This transaction covers about $200,000,000 of the region is to be under the control

COMMISSION TO SPEND TWO YEARS IN ASSESSING FINAL DAMAGES

Dispatch Containing Language of Reparation Clauses, Sent by Post-Dispatch Man Last Thursday, Held Up by British Censor to Protect Lloyd George.

SUPPRESSED UNTIL AFTER HIS SPEECH

Feared He Would Be Embarrassed in Statement to Parliament Because Terms to Enemy Are Far Below Those He Had Promised in His Ante-Election Pledges.

Announcement that the British Government would exercise no censorship on press messages during the peace conference was made by the British Foreign Office on Jan. 15. Premier Lloyd George added his personal assurance to the same effect to American correspondents.

Herbert Bayard Swope, the New York World's and Post-Dispatch's correspondent in Paris, filed in Paris at noon Thursday, April 10, the important dispatch appearing herewith. This dispatch demonstrated that Mr. Wilson's insistence on the armistice terms had won against Mr. Lloyd George's attempts to carry out his pre-election promises of enormous indemnities from Germany. The first information of the dispatch came to the World and the Post-Dispatch Saturday evening in a cablegram from Mr. Swope—sent by the French lines—conveying a request from President Wilson that the dispatch be held out, as it might cause "unfortunate complications."

On Sunday Mr. Swope learned that his dispatch had been held by the British censorship and that Mr. Lloyd George had gone to Mr. Wilson personally with the request that it be not printed. Mr. Tuohy, the Post-Dispatch's London correspondent now in Paris, after an inquiry into the incident, expressed the opinion that Mr. Lloyd George's desire was to keep the facts about the reparation agreement secret until he had made his speech in the House of Commons Tuesday.

Mr. Swope was asked Sunday by the British censorship to authorize them, in writing, to hold the dispatch, already held three days. He declined. He was then asked to consent that the censors hold the part giving the text of the reparations section, releasing his comment. He again refused.

At midnight on Monday, too late for the dispatch to be cabled back to London before Mr. Lloyd George had made his appearance before the House of Commons, the comment part of Mr. Swope's dispatch came to the Post-Dispatch. A dispatch was sent to Mr. Swope telling the circumstances and on Tuesday the first part of the dispatch containing the reparations section was received.

Mr. Tuohy cables that Sir George Riddell, chief of the British press delegation in Paris, deprecates the action of the British authorities who held up the message.

It has been generally believed in Paris that dispatches for American are read and copied by English and French authorities before transmission. The experience of the World and the Post-Dispatch correspondent, as outlined above, now furnishes positive proof of this.

The Post-Dispatch publishes herewith the text of the article which, as stated, was held by British authorities for five days before transmission to America.

TANKS TO CAPTURE 'GERMAN GUN NEST' IN PARK SUNDAY

Will Charge on Position While Coast Artillery Guns Pound It on Directions From Airplanes.

SOLDIERS TO GUARD "FIELD OF BATTLE"

Space Will Be Reserved for Returned and Wounded Men for Celebration on Art Hill.

Details of the spectacular tank, artillery and airplane exhibition in Forest Park Sunday afternoon, which will be a part of the demonstration marking the opening of the Victory Loan campaign, were announced today.

The tanks will go into action after the conclusion of the Victory parade service, which is scheduled to begin at 3 p. m. The tanks, camouflaged, will be stationed between the lagoons.

Wearing of Flag Urged. Several companies of soldiers will surround the field on which the engagement will take place, and will keep the public out of the range of any possible danger, or of interference with the operations.

Not only all who go to the Forest Park demonstration, but all who stay at home, are asked by the Victory Loan campaign managers to wear the national colors—red, white and blue.

The speakers' platform, at the foot of Art Hill, will be erected, in front, by artillery pieces. Space will be reserved, within the enclosure formed by these guns, for men in the army, navy and marine corps who have returned from service. A special reservation will be made for wounded men, who will be taken to the celebration in automobiles in all cases where the War Loan organization is notified, by telephone or letter, where to send for them.

At the conclusion of the speaking the audience will be asked to join in repeating a pledge of support to the Government and to the soldiers in "finishing the job." The pledge will be printed in Sunday's Post-Dispatch, and those who attend the meeting are asked to memorize it.

Two hundred men of the city sales force of the War Loan Organization received their final instructions at a luncheon yesterday at 100 Atlantic headquarters. More than 100 attended a dinner at the M. A. A. tonight.

Banks to Loan Money for Victory Bond Purchases.

J. C. Van Riper, chairman of the St. Louis metropolitan division of the War Loan Organization, today announced that an arrangement had been made by which all St. Louis banks and trust companies will lend money at 4 1/2 per cent interest to prospective purchasers of Victory Loan notes. The bank loans will run from the opening of the drive next Monday to Sept. 9.

In previous Liberty Bond drives the banks loaned money at higher interest rates and for a period of only 90 days.

of protesting against the Mississippi Valley country being made a hinterland for the cities of the Atlantic coast and for the purpose of demanding access to the ocean highways. After creating the wealth of the Atlantic coast and making of it the wealthiest section of the world, he said, it was time for the Mississippi Valley to demand something for itself. He was referring, of course, to the establishment of water transportation.

William L. Sackett, superintendent of waterways for the Department of Public Works of Illinois, came to St. Louis with a delegation of Illinois representatives with the news that the Illinois Senate yesterday passed unanimously its third reading a bill for the construction of a canal between Lockport and Utica, Illinois, which is the only remaining link necessary for water transportation from Chicago to New Orleans. The delegation brought with it a resolution for adoption by the convention to make the Illinois River from the point where the Chicago

Fire which started at 3 a. m. today in the three-story brick plant of the Honi-Krip Candy Co., 109 Vine street, damaged this building and four others in the neighborhood. Patrolman Mahoney, who went there after a still alarm had been turned in, said he found a pane of glass in the front door broken as though a missile had struck it from the outside.

Theodore C. Kronosky, of 2139 Clifton avenue, a proprietor of the candy company, estimated that the damage to the stock was $70,000.

Edward Hughes, a member of Salvage Corps No. 3, was injured when a barrel of glucose fell on him in the candy company's store. He was taken to the headquarters of his company and it was said his back was bruised.

MASSACHUSETTS WOULD TAKE OVER PHONES DURING STRIKE

Governor Asks Burleson if He Would Object to State Operation.

BOSTON, April 18.—Gov. Coolidge today asked Postmaster-General Burleson whether he objected to the State taking over the operation of the telephone system during the disability of the Government to furnish service in New England.

The Senate adopted an order asking President Wilson, through Secretary Tamm, to confer upon William R. Driver, general manager of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co., authority to settle the strike of telephone operators and electrical workers which had caused a suspension virtually of telephone communication in five of the six New England States. A resolution was introduced in the House declaring the strike was endangering the successful promotion of the Victory Loan.

The resolution called upon the Postmaster-General to bring about a speedy and amicable settlement agreeable to all concerned with special consideration of the public interest or to submit the question to arbitration.

M. S. MINNIS TO WED STRANGER TO PARENTS

Lawyer and Former Army Captain Has Been Living Away From Home for Several Days.

Milton S. Minnis, who was discharged as a Captain in the army in January and is a son of James L. Minnis, acting president of the Wash-Bash Railroad Co., announced today that he will be married Tuesday afternoon at the rectory of St. Rose's Catholic Church, Goodfellow and Maple avenues, to Miss Ida Marie Lauck, who lives with her mother, Mrs. Anna Lauck, and brother, Theodore, at the Hamilton Hotel.

Minnis' parents, who live in the Oxford Apartments at 2399 Waterman avenue, say he has not taken them into his confidence and that they had never met his fiancée. Miss Lauck some time ago posed it made in St. Louis motion pictures. She says she did it to help a friend. He needed "supers" in a scene showing depositors at a bank induced her to be one of the performers.

Minnis is a lawyer. In the firm of Hall & Minnis. He is 28 and lives with his parents, but for several days he has been staying with a friend at the Sterling Apartments, 5315 Pershing avenue, where the couple expect to live after their marriage.

Father McGlynn of St. Rose's will perform the ceremony. The marriage will take place in the rectory because Minnis is not a Catholic. Miss Lauck is a member of St. Rose's parish. She is about 26.

Parents Don't Know Her. Miss Lauck and her mother both admitted today that the wedding was not only admitted having taken the McElough-Morgan act, but gave police a list of the 10 others they had "borrowed" in the past month.

They said they never attempted to sell any of the autos. After riding until the gasoline was exhausted they would either replenish the tank if they had cash and keep on riding or abandon the car, they said. Several times, they said, they had to walk into the city from points in the county where the machines had gone "dead" for lack of gasoline.

Give List of Owners.

The cars used by the youths belonged to J. S. Smith of the Missouri Athletic Association; J. J. Yawitz, 5721 Kinross boulevard; Charles A. Dostal, 526 Lake avenue; Clarence W. Baird, Edwardsville, Ill.; Nicholas Perrin, Belleville, Ill.; E. M. Carson, 5223 Minerva avenue; Anthony Alenagay, 3839 Deg. Tony street; William Molasky, 1907 Shelby place; and Joseph E. Patrick, 2406 McCarney avenue.

Both the Carson and the Patrick machines were recovered in St. Louis.

County where they were found abandoned. The others were found by police abandoned inside the city limits.

After the confession, Roth was released on bond furnished by his parents, and Birmingham was held pending application for warrants. Policemen say the men blamed each other for the theft of the cars.

Roth is 29 years old and Birmingham is 25.

TOOK 11 AUTOS TO GO JOYRIDING

Two Youths Confess, Saying They Wanted to Show Girls a Good Time.

Harry Roth, 1326 Walton avenue, and Albert Birmingham, 3726 St. Louis avenue, following their arrest yesterday afternoon, confessed responsibility for the disappearance of 11 automobiles from downtown parking places since March 7.

Their desire to show two young girls a "good time" and win out in their estimation over richer young men who owned automobiles, caused them to take the machines, they told policemen.

The girls, Lucille Copley, 6163 Gambleton place, and Mildred Freeman, 3263 Arlington avenue, were taken to the Newstead avenue station after the confession and admitted, policemen say, to having participated in the "joy rides" with the two men, but both said they had no idea the machines were stolen. The men, they said, had told them the cars were "borrowed" from friends. The girls were not held.

Car Was Abandoned. The arrest of the young men followed the theft of an automobile belonging to R. A. McDougall, 4149A Red Bud avenue, taken from Ninth and Locust streets Wednesday and found abandoned in North St. Louis, the gasoline tank empty and covered with mud.

On descriptions given of two young men seen abandoning the car, the police arrested Roth and Birmingham. Later when questioned they not only admitted having taken the McDougall car, but gave police a list of the 10 others they had "borrowed" in the past month.

They said they never attempted to sell any of the autos. After riding until the gasoline was exhausted they would either replenish the tank if they had cash and keep on riding or abandon the car, they said. GOV. GARDNER YIELDS TO COUNTRY POLITICIANS AND SIGNS "MUD ROAD" BILL

Executive Arms Himself Against Criticism With Opinion in Defense by Opponent of Equitable Taxation.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 18.—Yielding to the demands of the country politicians, Gov. Gardner last night signed the "mud-road" bill, guaranteeing to the State continued mudholes, continued rocky hills and in summer continued hub-deep dust, postponing indefinitely the day when Missouri can emerge from "back-woodness."

But the politicians will get $7,200,000 to divide among their counties.

Realizing the criticism which would follow his approval of the measure, the Governor armed himself with an opinion in defense written by Attorney-General McCallister, leader of the opposition to equitable taxation in the State, and by comforting and approving statements from a number of his appointees, including Commissioner Noah W. Simpson of the Public Service Commission, Counsel R. Perry Spencer of the commission and the members of the State Highway Board, George E. McIninch of St. Joseph, E. L. Sanford of Springfield, C. O. Raine of Canton and S. L. Pingree of St. Louis, and the board's secretary, John Malang of Joplin.

Governor Under Strain.

The Governor has been under great strain all week while he has had the bill on his desk, occupying a position between criticism of his approving action from loyal friends of good roads and the demands of the country politicians, who were insisting that they be permitted to split the State road fund, contributed largely by the larger cities, among the counties, most of which contributed virtually nothing to the fund.

There are 114 counties in Missouri, and under the McCullough-Morgan bill, more than 100 of these will receive many thousands of dollars more than they put up. They will get this money, $60,000 going to each county, to grade dirt roads, without the slightest obligation on their part to expend a penny of their own county money.

The practical politician knows that no candidate for United States Senator or any other office could have a better campaign-talking point than that he had each county of the State in the way of getting $60,000 of State funds. For this reason, if no other, they felt sure the Governor would sign the bill.

Summons Attorney-General.

Yesterday, when the time had become short for signing the measure, the Governor summoned the Attorney-General to prepare a legal opinion which the Governor expected would satisfy his critics. The questions submitted to the Attorney-General had little to do with the practical results of throwing $7,200,000 into dirt roads, but one question involved the availability of convicts for work on the public roads. The question was ingeniously worded so that it was not necessary for the Attorney-General to say whether, under the McCullough-Morgan bill, it would be possible to use convicts on the roads to be built under its provisions, and he did not discuss that point in his answer.

The question asked him was: "Can convict labor still be used in the work of road construction to the same extent as is authorized under existing law?"

The opinion was: "Specific authority is given to the State Highway Board and also to the several county courts to enter into contracts with the Prison Board for the use of convicts on State highways or rural postroads."

Critics of the road bill say that, under the McCullough-Morgan law, convicts cannot be employed on roads constructed under it. They point to the provision of the McCullough-Morgan law, that road construction shall be under bids let to private contractors, and then point to the provision of the State prison law, prohibiting the contracting of convicts except directly to counties or the State Highway Board for road work.

The Governor returned the bill to the Senate last night with his approval, accompanying it with his defense. "That there might be a proper circulation of the defense, and notwithstanding the shortage of State funds, Senator McCullough introduced a resolution, which was adopted, providing for the publication of 1000 copies. The statement, which described the bill as a series of amendments to the Hawes law of two years ago, follows:

"Five objections have been raised to these amendments, four of which are legal questions which I submitted to the Attorney-General. His reply is as follows:

"We have your letter of yesterday, in which you request the opinion of this department relative to the effect of the changes made by the McCullough-Morgan act on the provisions of the existing law, found at page 481 of the session laws, 1917, known as the Hawes road law, and particularly in reference to the following propositions, to wit:

"1. Can convict labor still be used in the work of road construction to the same extent as is authorized under existing law?"

"2. Can the machinery and road equipment owned by counties or other civil subdivisions of the State, be made use of in the construction of roads under the proposed act?"

"3. Does the proposed enactment change the character of roads, surfaced and earth, which may now be constructed under the terms of the Hawes act?"

"4. Do the proposed amendments relax the provisions contained in the Hawes law with reference to obtaining Federal aid for road construction?"

Attorney-General's Answers.

"Answering the inquiries in the order submitted, I beg to advise as follows:

"1. By the terms of section 11 of the State Prison Board act, found on page 155 of the Session Laws for 1917, and sections 1 to 8 of the convict labor act, page 153 of the 1917 laws, specific authority is given to the State Highway Board and also to the several County Courts to enter into contracts with the Prison Board for the use of convicts on State highways or rural postroads, or county highways, on such terms as may be agreed upon by the State Highway Board or the County Court, as the case may be, and the Prison Board, and upon such boards falling to agree, the Governor is authorized to fix the terms and conditions of such contracts. The proposed McCullough-Morgan act does not repeal, or affect in any manner the above provisions, and, therefore, convicts can be contracted for upon the same terms as provided for in the 1917 enactment, with the exception as set out in section 14 of the act under consideration, which requires a preference shall be given, other conditions being equal, to honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines." This preference clause exactly follows the language contained in section 6 of the act of Congress making the appropriation of Federal aid, approved Feb. 28, 1919, and doubtless was included in the proposed law for the purpose of fully meeting the requirements of the Federal authorities.

Authority for Construction.

"2. Under the terms of section 14 of the McCullough-Morgan act the State Highway Board is authorized to receive bids for road construction and, in the absence of satisfactory bids, to carry on the work of road-building itself, and in section 19, the county or civil subdivision is given authority to construct roads therein, so that in either event the question of making use of any road machinery and equipment now owned by the county is a matter of administrative detail which can be provided for at the time of advertising for bids and entering into contract for the construction of the particular road project. In other words, the State Highway Board, or the County Board, as the case may be, has full power to incorporate any machinery or road equipment now owned by the county shall be used in the construction of the roads, and due allowances be made therefor.

"3. The present law in section 9 contains the requirement that roads which are to be constructed shall be selected with a view to 'economy in construction, maintenance and operation.' In other words, the State Highway Engineer shall examine same and 'if he deems them practicable and proper he shall include said road in the proposed plan.'"

"4. Does the proposed enactment

FARMERS IN CAPE GIRARDEAU SECTION STICK TO SUN TIME

Federal officials who have just returned from a session of the United States District Court at Cape Girardeau, Mo., learned while there that farmers in Southeast Missouri and Southwest Illinois have not moved their clocks and watches forward an hour in accordance with the daylight saving plan, but are still following sun time.

Cape Girardeau clocks have been moved up, but a ferryboat which operates between that town and the Illinois shore is still on the old schedule. One of the court officials was surprised when he heard a visitor from Illinois ask a merchant if his clock was running on "sun time or on ferryboat time." He questioned this farmer, who said "all the folks in the country" preferred the old time system because it had always been their habits to "get up by the sun."

GOV. GARDNER SIGNS 'MUD ROAD' BILL AND GIVES REASONS

set statement," and submit the same for the approval of the Federal authorities. Section 14 contains the further provision "that every road constructed under the provisions of this act shall be given substantial character by." An examination of the proposed act discloses that the identical requirements for the selection and approval of roads are contained, respectively, in sections 8, 8-A and 14. It is, therefore, our opinion, that precedent to the construction of a road of any character, the manner of construction and the type of road, must under the present Hawes act, first meet the approval of the State authorities as well as the Federal Government, and the same requirements are provided by the McCullough-Morgan act.

"4. In section 6 of the act of Congress, approved July 11, 1916, which is the law setting out the terms and conditions upon which Federal aid may be obtained, it is provided that the Secretary of Agriculture shall approve "only such projects as may be substantial in character." In order to conform with the above requirement, the Legislature incorporated the same provision in section 14 of the Hawes act, page 489, Session Laws, 1917, and the identical language of that section is the subject under consideration in the report in section 14 of the proposed McCullough-Morgan act. The answer to your inquiry, therefore, is that the proposed act contains the same requirements, so far as Federal aid is concerned, as is found in the existing Hawes road law.

Vital Points of Hawes Law.
"From the above opinion of the Attorney General, it will be observed that, contrary to such impressions, no change has been made in the four vital points of the Hawes act. The fifth objection is to the only really distinguishing feature of these amendments to the original law, viz.: Authorizing the State to allow each county $1200 per mile for 50 miles of road ($600 State and $600 Federal). It must be borne in mind, however, that the road is not to be constructed for this $1200 per mile unless the project meets the requirements of the Federal road department and the State road department, and that the difference between this amount and the amount necessary to build a road acceptable to both departments must be borne on the same basis as the Hawes act, viz.: 50 per cent county and 50 per cent Federal. This requirement absolutely prevents waste of any fund.

"It has been thought by those familiar with road conditions in the State, and sentiment throughout the counties, that this will be an inducement to the counties to take hold of the road-building proposition in a vigorous fashion and is the only method to be adopted at this time whereby the large sums of over $9,000,000 of Federal aid may be utilized, and consequently, a sentiment created whereby the $30,000,000 bond issue to be voted upon in November of next year may be passed. Time alone will demonstrate as to whether or not these claims are justified.

St. Louis Pays 17 Per Cent.
"In consideration of this matter, it must not be overlooked that 83 per cent of the automobile fund is paid into the State Treasury outside of the city of St. Louis. During the year 1918 the total automobile license amounted to $1,588,225.30 and St. Louis city paid $232,715.40, or 17 per cent. It must also be borne in mind that the question was before the Legislature for some three months. Numerous public meetings were held and, in the final vote of the Legislature, not a dissenting vote was cast in the Senate and only four in the lower House against the measure, the total vote in both houses being 149 for, and 4 against it. It must also be borne in mind that in a democracy the people speak on legislative matters through their representatives. Here, then, is practically a unanimous vote.

"In consideration of any measure of this character placed before the Governor, it is highly proper that he should consult with and have the advice of those who are responsible for active operation and administration. The State Highway Commission is a bipartisan board, composed of the highest type of business men, residing in Springfield, St. Joseph, Hannibal and the city of St. Louis, thus all sections of the State are represented. Men who have served and are serving the State at a great personal loss to themselves, after carefully considering the sentiment of the Legislature and the amount of Federal aid available, the ultimate goal of passing a bond issue for $9,000,000 to hard-surface a complete system of roads in the State and the welfare of the State as a whole, together with the responsibility resting upon their shoulders, these gentlemen have unanimously endorsed the amendments. I cannot but feel that but with these four splendid men, together with Mr. Maleng of Joplin, as secretary and road superintendent, the public may rest assured that not one dollar will be wasted."

TURKS RELEASING WOMEN

Former Inmates of Harem Suffer From Hunger.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Dispatches from Constantinople to the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief report that the problem presented by the release of thousands of Christian women and children from Turkish harems in Asia Minor is constantly growing. Many have been given shelter by the relief workers, but there remain a large number wandering about destitute, some of them crazed from hunger and exposure.

The Turks, the message said, were casting adrift the Armenian girls they had taken into their homes and orphanages for the purpose of bringing them up as Moslems, believing that thus they might be able to escape punishment.

ELVINS (MO.) MAN ARRESTED AS RESULT OF ROBBERY REPORT

Wife Head of Holdup and Wrote
Police to Send Him Home; He Is Charged With Abandoning Family.

Cleveland Steele of Elvins, Mo., a lead worker, was arrested on a charge of wife and child abandonment last night as an indirect result of his having reported that he was waylaid and robbed of $1000 by negroes at Beaumont and Lawton avenues Tuesday night.

Mrs. Steele, at Elvins, read newspaper accounts of the robbery and wrote to the St. Louis police, asking them to send her husband home, as he was needed to support her and their five children.

J. E. Rollins, Constable at Elvins, also was interested to the extent of wiring the police here to help Steele on an abandonment charge. After his arrest Steele said he had not intended to abandon his family, but was unable to pay his fare home after being robbed.

The money stolen from him represented the settlement of a damage claim against a lead company in whose plant he was injured.

MAN CHARGED WITH TRYING TO SHOOT OUT LIGHTS IN HOTEL

Revolver Found in Room and Bullet
Hole in Ceiling—Accused Clerk of "Taking Charge" of Money.

Policemen called to the Rilling Hotel, Seventh and Walnut streets, at 2 a. m. today, were told an unruly guest was trying to shoot out the lights in one of the rooms after he had attempted to intimidate the night clerk, Henry Erin, whom he accused of having taken charge of his money.

In the room indicated the policemen found William H. McGuire, 37 years old, who said his home was "anywhere." They found a revolver with several empty cartridges under a bed. A bullet hole was in the ceiling.

"That's not my pistol and I never fired any shots," McGuire said. He was held.

Erin said McGuire had registered at the hotel a short time prior to the shooting and after writing his name had drawn the revolver and ordered him to "hand over" some money McGuire claimed he had given Erin to keep for him. Erin said it was the first time he had ever seen McGuire and had no money of his. He quieted him, escorted him to a room and the shooting followed almost immediately.

LAUNDRY DRIVER KILLS WIFE AND TAKES OWN LIFE

Woman Thought to Have Been Murdered While Using Telephone in Home Where She Was Employed.

Bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Brinkschulte Discovered by 16-Year-Old Daughter of Latter's Employer.

Detectives investigating the murder of Mrs. Frances Brinkschulte, 25 years old, and the suicide of her estranged husband, Edward Brinkschulte, 28 years old, at the home of Mrs. Kathryn Gedney, 4615 McMillan avenue, where Mrs. Brinkschulte was employed as housekeeper, believe that Mrs. Brinkschulte was at the telephone when her husband shot her.

The receiver was hanging from the hook and Mrs. Brinkschulte was lying on the floor in such a position that her feet touched the table on which the telephone stood. Brinkschulte's head was resting on his wife's shoulder.

The tragedy was discovered by Mrs. Gedney's daughter, Vivian Gedney, 16 years old, at 5:45 p. m., yesterday, when the latter returned home from her mother's hair dressing establishment at 431 Locust street. The house was dark and as Vivian passed through the hall leading to the kitchen she stumbled over the bodies at the kitchen door.

Mrs. Gedney told police that Mrs. Harry Beck of Wellston had informed her that Mrs. Brinkschulte had telephoned to her shortly after 5 p. m., but that she had not observed anything strange. Mrs. Gedney was of the opinion that Mrs. Brinkschulte was shot just after she had completed her conversation with Mrs. Beck and before she had time to adjust the receiver.

Brinkschulte drove a laundry wagon and resided with his mother, Mrs. Lena Brinkschulte, at 6448 Myrtle avenue, St. Louis County. He and his wife had been separated for the past four weeks and Mrs. Brinkschulte and her 5-year-old daughter, Dorothy, had been residing at the Gedney flat. A divorce suit was being prepared, and by arrangement between the parents, Brinkschulte was in the habit of calling at the Gedney home each afternoon and taking his daughter to his mother's for the night.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Brinkschulte telephoned to Mrs. Gedney at the hairdressing establishment that Brinkschulte had called her up and told her to be certain to remain at home, as he had something of importance to tell her.

When Vivian Gedney found the bodies she summoned her mother by telephone and then went to the front porch to await her mother's arrival, too frightened to remain in the house. Mrs. Gedney reached home half an hour later.

Mrs. Brinkschulte had three bullet wounds. Two were in the back of her head and the third in the left breast. There were acid burns on Brinkschulte's mouth and neck, and, with six empty shells, was on the kitchen table near a cup which bore a strong odor of carbolic acid. The police believe that after drinking the poison he staggered over to where his wife was lying and fell across her body.

Investigation by the police developed that Brinkschulte had taken his daughter to his mother's home at 4 p. m. He said nothing to his mother, the latter informed the police, that indicated that he had contemplated anything unusual.

A note found in Brinkschulte's pocket addressed to his mother explained the murder and suicide. It read:

"This woman of mine has ruined my home and I cannot stand it any longer. Take good care of Dot for me. Get the piano, her clothing, what money there is and the receipt for the Liberty Bond and bring it all home, so that Mrs. Gedney does not get it. She is the cause of it all. She enticed Frances away from me."

Mrs. Gedney said that she had nothing to do with the domestic troubles of the Brinkschultes except to give Mrs. Brinkschulte a home when she left her husband. She said that Mrs. Brinkschulte had told her that her husband was selfish. He frequently invited friends to his home and showed them a good time, but never allowed his wife to have any company. Mrs. Brinkschulte had told her.

FEW DROPS AND A CORN LIFTS OUT

Says there is no excuse for cutting corns and inviting lockjaw.

Soft corns, hard corns, soft corns or any kind of a corn can harmlessly be lifted right out with the fingers if you will apply directly upon the corn a few drops of freezone, says a Cincinnati authority.

It is claimed that at small cost one can get a quart of corns of freezone, which is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn or callus without pain or soreness or the danger of infection.

This simple drop, while sticky, dries the moment it is applied and does not inflame or even irritate the surrounding tissue.

This announcement will interest many women here, for it is said that the present high-heeled footwear is putting corns on practically every woman's feet.—ADV.

The home of Misses Anna and Mollie Doepeke, 1613 Carr street, was robbed yesterday afternoon of $3225 and a ring valued at $75 by thieves who lured Miss Anna Doepeke from home by a false telephone summons.

The Misses Doepeke are orphans and lived alone. The money was from life insurance on their mother, Miss Anna Doepeke, who was alone at home and about 4:40 p. m. she was called to the telephone at the Silverstein Grocery Co., 1613 Carr street by Mrs. Silverstein. A man's voice urgently requested her to go at once to the Gerst Real Estate Co., near Eighth and Chestnut streets. As that company had business dealings with the Doepeke family, Miss Doepeke did not suspect anything wrong.

At the offices of the real estate company she was informed that she had not been called by them, and she returned home, where she found the rear door had been broken open and the money stolen from a wardrobe drawer, the lock of which had been forced. The only other place molested was a small icebox, where Miss Doepeke had concealed the ring and some small change.

Mrs. Anna Heusse of 1608 Carr street gave the police descriptions of two men whom she saw leave the Doepeke home about 5 o'clock. Two men were arrested, both of whom disclaim knowledge of the crime.

Met Two Confidence Men.

Two confidence men lured James Campitella, on his way from Fort Worth, Tex., to New York, from Union Station yesterday and robbed him of $300 by the ancient "lost pocketbook" game. One spoke Italian and the other Syrian. They had walked but a block from the station, he said, when one of the men purported to pick up a purse from the sidewalk. The man insisted it was Campitella's. The visitor said that he had his own pocketbook and the men insisted on seeing it. One of the men took it and compared it with the one "found" and handed it back to Campitella. About that time the two strangers got into what appeared to be a lively fist encounter.

"Call the police in a hurry," the Italian yelled to Campitella. He ran to look for a policeman. When he returned his two new-found friends had disappeared. Looking into his purse he saw he had been robbed.

Four women were robbed by pickpockets while in downtown stores shopping yesterday. Mrs. Helen Lippel, 117 North Harrison street, Kirkwood, reported the theft of $75, two deeds of trust for $1350 and a certificate of deposit for $1400. An envelope containing the money and papers was taken from a large purse she carried on her arm. The other robbers were Mrs. Charles Dillingham, 5155 Winona avenue, $8; Mrs. Jennie Burns, 214 St. Louis avenue, $4; and Mrs. Bessie Mueller, 484 Botanical avenue, $8.

Burglar in Home.

Burglars at the home of Ernest R. Kroeger, 5532 Waterman avenue, in the absence of the family last night, stole $7 and jewelry worth $450. At the home of Mrs. Julia E. Hyde, 6134 Delmar boulevard, burglars took $25 cash and $175 worth of clothing and jewelry.

The automobiles of George Bennett, 4059 Moffitt avenue, and Florence Rafter, 3839 Finney avenue, were reported stolen in the evening. The Rafter car was taken from Seventh and Pine streets.

E. G. Schoenberger, a telegraph operator from Chicago, told police he had been robbed of $125, but could not tell how. He missed the money, he said, when he awoke in a room at the Elitz Hotel, Eighteenth and Market streets. He did not know whether he had been robbed after he went to the hotel or before.

EIGHTH AND LOCUST—TO ST. CHARLES

LIEUT. CLARENCE GILL GETS CROIX DE GUERRE

St. Louisan Tells of Thrilling Air Battles While With Unit Quentin Roosevelt Was In.

Lieut. Clarence Gill, a St. Louis aviator who won the Croix de Guerre for bravery at Chateau-Thierry, is at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence P. Gill, 3915 Hartford street, on a 15-day leave. He was a member of the Ninety-fifth Aero Squadron, first pursuit group, 92 which the late Quentin Roosevelt belonged.

Gill is officially credited with bringing down one German plane. He was sent to the front July 15 last and two weeks later brought down his first plane. He describes his experiences thus:

"When we reached front last July the Ninety-fifth Squadron was attached to the Sixth French Army. Our field was about 17 kilometers behind the lines at Chateau-Thierry and it was our duty to serve as scouts on patrol duty and to accompany and protect observation planes when they went behind the German lines on photographic missions.

Separated in Fog. "One day late in July four of us got separated from our patrol. It was a foggy, misty day and, really, we had no business to be flying. We caught sight of a German down below us, altogether oblivious of our presence so, in turn, we swooped down on him and put him out of business. His observer was killed. "One of the fellows was Lieut. Puyssat of Memphis and he went down and landed beside the German plane for a souvenir. Unfortunately he found himself inside the German lines and was made prisoner. We had later he had escaped."

Lieut. Gill saw his liveliest action August 10 when he was in a melee fight between 16 American scout planes and 30 German Fokkers. The fight occurred over the lines at Chateau-Thierry on the day, according to Gill, that his outfit was transferred to the First American Army. "We were protecting an observation plane carrying a photographer," Lieut. Gill said. "Eight of us were flying in formation just a little above him and eight more planes were a couple of thousand feet above us. The fellows higher up engaged 14 German planes and drove them down through some clouds right on our heads and were attacked in turn by an additional force of 16 German planes. Well, it was a grand mix-up.

I nosed out of a cloud and heard the rat-a-tat-tat of a machine gun. They can say all they like about not being able to hear anything while you're flying, but believe me, you can hear a machine gun. I saw a flock of tracer bullets go by on one side and I dived.

Runs Into Another German. "Later I climbed up a bit to regain lost altitude and another German chap was right on my tail. I looked over my shoulder and saw his plane rocking from side to side and then he straightened out prepared to hand me a burst of fire from his machine gun. Just as he did so I kicked the rudder and the ship skidded over to the right and the bullets went by on the left side. I could see 'em. Tracer bullets, they call 'em. Skidding is darn poor flying, but it sure came in handy there.

"He repeated the performance of rocking and then straightening out and I kicked the rudder to the other side and just then I ran into a guy in front of me. All of a sudden I heard his machine gun, and bullets began flying all around me. They went through the wings and the tail. One hit the engine and put four cylinders out of commission.

Vital Machine Parts Hit. "Another severed the gasoline pipes and an explosive bullet hit the magneto switch and blew it to goodness knows where. Two fragments of that bullet went into my right leg. Gasoline was pouring down into my lap and I was afraid any moment I would catch fire, and then I knew it would be all off with me. I can't tell you how I got out of it. I went through a cloud bank and when I looked again both planes were gone and I landed inside the American first line.

"Yes, I got a Croix de Guerre. Whether I got it for shooting down that one plane or for the gang fight later I don't know. It really doesn't mean much. The French hand them out pretty freely just to make you feel good."

Lieut. Gill was sent to the hospital and later was transferred to a flying field in the Verdun sector where he did patrol duty on the St. Mihiel and Argonne fronts. He is 25 years old and formerly was employed at Woodward & Lothrop Printing Co. He attended the first officers' training camp at Fort Riley, Kan. After transferring to the air service, he was sent overseas in November, 1917. At the expiration of his furlough he will return to Camp Mills, N. Y., where he expects to be discharged May 1.

WILSON DIRECTS REOPENING OF PRICE STABILIZATION EFFORT

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, April 18.—President Wilson has directed the Industrial Board of the Department of Commerce and the Railroad Administration to reopen discussion of price stabilization and endeavor to find a common ground on which they can agree.

Chairman Peek announced today that the board would take up the question with the Railroad Administration immediately, but any action probably will have to wait the return of Director-General Hines next week from an inspection trip in the West.

Judge Orders Flashily Attired Bartender to Produce $50 for His Wife's Clothing.

CHICAGO, April 18.—Joe Gerbar, bartender, home 9027 Ellis avenue, stood before Judge Graham in the South Chicago Court. He was flashily dressed. His hair was glossy and smelled of tonic. There was a carnation in his buttonhole. His suit was freshly pressed and his shoes bright with polish.

Beside him stood his wife. There were holes in her shoes. Her skirt was frayed. The shirtwaist in her best days had been a cheap affair. She had only a shawl on her head.
"They're my best, Judge," she said. "The last decent clothing I had was my wedding gown. That was six years ago. He hasn't bought me a stitch since."
"But he's going to now," said the Judge. "Joe," and he shook his finger at the dandy, "bring me $50 tomorrow morning. No excuses. I'm going out with your wife and help her buy some clothes."

FOOD RELIEF FOR RUSSIA THOUGHT TO BE ASSURED

France Finally Agrees to Provisioning Under Control of Dr. Nansen's Neutral Commission.

BOLSHEVIKI MUST CEASE HOSTILITIES

Lenine Said to Be Willing to Accept Nansen's Conditions—Hundreds of Thousands Die Monthly.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, April 18.—The allied and associated Powers are prepared to aid in the relief of Russia with foodstuffs, medical supplies and other necessities, provided there is a cessation of hostilities "within definite lines in the territory of Russia."

This fact became known in correspondence which has passed between Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, head of the commission appointed to feed Russia, and President Wilson and Premier Clemenceau, Lloyd George and Orlando.

France Finally Agrees.
Premier Clemenceau withheld his approval of the proposition temporarily but added his signature yesterday, thus virtually assuring the immediate economic relief of Soviet Russia, as Lenine is known to be willing to accept food on conditions outlined by Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, and discussed with the Bolsheviki by various neutral representatives at Moscow.

Nansen's letter said: "The present food situation in Russia, where hundreds of thousands of people are dying monthly from sheer starvation and disease, is one of the problems now uppermost in all men's minds."

"It would appear to me possible to organize a purely humanitarian committee for the provisioning of Russia, the foodstuffs and medical supplies to be paid for, perhaps to some considerable extent, by Russia itself. The justice of distribution to be guaranteed by a committee. The general makeup of the committee would be comprised of Norwegian, Swedish, and possibly Dutch, Danish and Swiss nationalities."

"It does not appear that the existing authorities in Russia would refuse the intervention of such a committee of a wholly nonpolitical order, devoted solely to the humanitarian service of saving life."

Reply from Premier.
A reply was sent by President Wilson and the Premier yesterday saying:

"The misery and suffering in Russia described in your letter of April 2 appeals to the sympathies of all peoples. It is shocking to humanity that millions of men and women and children lack the food and nourishment which makes life endurable."

"The Governments of the peoples whom we represent would be glad to co-operate, without thought of political, military or financial advantage, in any proposal which would relieve this situation in Russia. It seems to us that such a committee as you propose would offer a practical means of acquiring the beneficial results that you have in view and could not either in its conception or its operation be considered as having any other aim than the humanitarian purpose of saving life."

"There are great difficulties to be overcome, political difficulties given to the existing situation in Russia and difficulties of supply and of transport; but if the existing local governments of Russia are as willing as the Governments and peoples whom we represent to see succor and relief given to the stricken people of Russia, no political obstacle will remain."

"There will remain, however, the difficulties of supply, finance and transport which we have mentioned, and also the problem of distribution in Russia itself. The problem of supply we can ourselves hope to solve in connection with the advance and co-operation of such a committee as you propose. The problem of finance would seem to us to fall upon the Russian authorities. The problem of transport of supplies to Russia we can hope to meet, with the assistance of your own and neutral governments, whose interests should be as great as our own and whose losses have been loss."

What Russians Must Do.
"The problems of transport in Russia and of distribution can be solved only by the people of Russia themselves, with the assistance, advice and supervision of your commission. Subject to such supervision the problem of distribution should be solely under the control of the people of Russia themselves. The people in each locality should be given, as under the regime of the Belgian Relief Commission, the fullest opportunity to advise your commission upon the methods and the personnel by which their community is to be relieved."

"In no other circumstance could it be believed that the purpose of this relief was humanitarian and not political. Under no other conditions could it be certain that the hungry would be fed."

"That such a course would involve the cessation of hostilities within definite lines in the territory of Russia is obvious, and the cessation of hostilities would necessarily involve a complete suspension of the transfer of troops and military material of all sorts to and within Russia's territory.

"Indeed, relief to Russia which did not mean a return to a state of peace would be futile and would be impossible to consider."

"Under such conditions as we have outlined we believe that your plan could be successfully carried into effect and we should be prepared to give it our full support."

"E. ORLANDO,
"D. LLOYD GEORGE,
"WOODROW WILSON,
"G. CLEMENCEAU."

"NOW THAT WE'VE PAID FOR WAR LET US PAY FOR PEACE"

Congressman Rainey in a Victory Loan Speech Says War Made 22,000 Millionaires.

Congressman Henry T. Rainey of Illinois emphasized the necessity of heavy subscriptions to the Victory Liberty Loan in speaking before the Junior Chamber of Commerce at Hotel Statler last night in behalf of the loan.

"We have paid for the war," he said, "now let us pay for the victory and peace. Our daily expenses now amount to $50,000,000 because of the war. By the time the Victory Loan drive is completed every cent of the total subscription will have been spent."

Rainey said 22,000 millionaires had been made in the United States by the war. "This concentration of wealth is dangerous," he said. "Rumblings already are heard. Concessions should be made to the people if this sort of affairs is to be endured. We have it within our power to keep democracy intact."

He said there never was a Monroe Doctrine until President Wilson promulgated the idea of self-determination, which is simply the application of the Monroe Doctrine to the whole world.

Lieut. Alexander Lewis of Joliet, Ill., who was attached to the 1st Division as chaplain, also spoke.

CENTRAL OFFICE FOR SOLDIER AID DISCUSSED

C. of C. Members, Employers and Government Agency Take Up Gen. Wood's Proposal.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce, the Employers' Association and the Government Employment Service met yesterday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce and discussed the advisability of placing in one building all the agencies that are at work for the welfare of returning soldiers, in accordance with a suggestion made by Major-General Leonard Wood on his recent visit to St. Louis.

This would include the housing in one building of the Government Employment Service, the Red Cross and the war work branches of the Y. M. C. A., Knights of Columbus, Salvation Army and Jewish Welfare Association for the greater convenience of the soldier and for more closely co-ordinated work in restoring the soldier to the normal civilian status.

Among those at the meeting were Jackson Johnson, president of the Chamber of Commerce; A. J. Davis, president of the Employers' Association; W. W. Brown of Kansas City, Federal Director of the Government Employment Service for Missouri; and Lieut. C. H. Boyles of Washington, representing Col. Arthur Woods, special assistant to the Secretary of War.

It was unanimously agreed that the plan was feasible, and a committee was named to investigate the work of the different organizations and report back. The committee today is devoting its time to looking into the work of the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines Employment Agency of the Government at 902 Olive street.

Lieut. Boyles announced that Col. Woods had established a Division of Correspondence of the Emergency Employment Committee for Soldiers and Sailors of the Council of National Defense at Washington. All requests for information on such questions as war risk insurance, bonuses, employment, civil rights, vocational training and the like, he said, should be addressed Col. Arthur Woods, Special Assistant to the Secretary of War, Council of National Defense Building, Washington, D. C.

Employer's Agency May Quit.
In the event that all soldier welfare organizations are centralized here, Brown told a Post-Dispatch reporter after the meeting, the Employers' Association, it had been agreed, would discontinue its employment office at 405 Olive street, in favor of the Government service.

Lieut. Leslie C. McLaughlin, in charge of the Marine Recruiting Station here, has detailed Serat L. L. Walker to assist at the Federal Employment Bureau for returned soldiers, sailors and marines, at 902 Olive street.

BOY TRUANT KILLED BY IRON MOUNTAIN TRAIN

Lad Knocked From Trestle Had Note in Pocket Asking Teacher to Excuse Him.

William Theodore Ryan, 14 years old, of 125A Talmage avenue, was hurled from a trestle into the Meramec River, near its junction with the Mississippi, by an Iron Mountain train at 7 p. m. Wednesday, after he had played truant from school that day. The boy was recovered yesterday. He was the son of Michael Ryan, a railroad fireman.

The boy, a pupil at Rock Spring School, Sarpy and Hawk avenues, had been made to stay in at recess on Tuesday for pushing another boy while on the way to a classroom. He disappeared that afternoon. In his pocket was found a note which he had written, signing his mother's name, addressed to the teacher. It read:

"Dear Teacher, please excuse Teddy yesterday afternoon. He had to take his little sister to the park."

FAMOUS RUSSIAN GENERAL SHOT

Mistchenko Was a Veteran of Two Wars in Which He Was Prominent.

By the Associated Press.
VLADIVOSTOK, March 13.—Gen. Mistchenko has been shot, according to a statement made to a member of the British Mission here by a Russian aviator who deserted from the red army in January and flew into the lines of Admiral Kolchak's army.

Gen. Paul Ivanovitch Mistchenko was a veteran of four wars. He fought through the Russo-Turkish War of 1877-8, in the Boxer fight in China in 1900-1, in the Russo-Japanese War and the world war of 1914. He distinguished himself by a series of brilliant operations as commander of a cavalry corps. Afterward he was Governor-General of Turkestan and subsequently commander of the Don Cossacks. For his services in the world war he was decorated with the Order of Alexander Nevsky.

THIN PEOPLE NEED BITRO- PHOSPHATE

How It Increases Weight,
Strength and Nerve Force in Two Weeks' Time in Many Instances.

"Take plain bitro-phosphate," is the advice of physicians to thin, delicate people who lack strength, energy and nerve force, and there seems to be ample proof of the efficacy of this preparation to warrant the recommendation. Moreover, if we judge from the countless testimonials and the fact that which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people heavy, developing arms, back and bust, and replacing very hollow and aching by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness and weakness, and who are in need of bitro-phosphate.

Miss Josephine Davis, reporting her own experience with BITRO PHOSPHATE, says: "It is remarkable what it did for me. After a few days I began to regain my strength, felt full of life, was able to sleep soundly and all my little troubles seemed to disappear. I gained twelve pounds in four weeks."

Modern science has shown that in modern foods, bitro-phosphate is lacking. It is a substance that will supply this deficiency. It is known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by Judge & Dolph, Endicott Drug Store, Johnson Bros., Drug Co. and Wolf-Wilson Drug Co. in St. Louis, and most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric acid element, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance, the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, dizziness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION.—Although Bitro-Phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, it should not be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

ADV.—Nuxated Iron increases strength and endurance of delicate, nervous, run-down people in two weeks' time in many instances. It has been used and endorsed by such men as United States Senator and Vice-Presidential nominee Charles A. Tamm; U. S. Commissioner of Immigration Hon. Anthony W. Abbot; and the Court of Claims of Washington, and others. Ask your doctor or pharmacist about it.

ADV.—Dandruff surely destroys the hair. Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—ADV.

Drink Habit Surrenders to TESCUM

Tescum Powder for breaking up the drink habit, destroys all taste for whiskey, gin, beer or other alcoholic stimulants, as thousands of wives and mothers can testify. It is a simple home treatment that can be given secretly, and is sold under a steel-bound money-refund guarantee by Ederie, Johnson Bros., Pauley, Wolf-Wilson and other druggists.—ADV.

HOW THE NAVY IS PREPARING FOR ATLANTIC FLIGHT

Every Bureau of the Department and the Fleet Itself Mobilizing Activities for Effort Next Month.

MEN WHO ARE IN CHARGE OF PROJECT

Probably Two of the N. C. Type Seaplanes Designed for the Undertaking Will Make the Start.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 18.—Mobilization of naval effort for the proposed flight of seaplanes across the Atlantic next month is going on extensively. Capt. Noble D. Irwin, in charge of naval aviation, is the directing head, and every bureau of the Navy Department, as well as the fleet itself, is co-operating with him. Planes to be used were designed by Naval Constructors Jerome C. Hunsaker and Holden C. Richardson and their assistants, in association with representatives of the Curtiss company, which built the aircraft. Inspection during construction was under Lieut. George C. Westervelt. These officers are attached to the Bureau of Construction and Repair, which has charge of designing and constructing all naval planes.

The manufacture and installation of motors and attachments were directed by Commander Arthur K. Atkins of the Bureau of Steam Engineering, and the preparation and installation of radio equipment on the planes was superintended by Lieut. Robert A. Lavender of the Engineering Bureau's radio division, of which Commander Stanford Hooper is the head. Electric lighting and wiring on the planes was assigned to another division of this bureau.

Preparation of Plans.
Preparations of plans for the flight and the assembly of material is the work of the especially created transatlantic section of the office of naval aviation, which operates under the immediate direction of Capt. Irwin. Commander John H. Powers is in charge of the section, and detailed with him are Lieut. P. N. L. Bellinger, Commander Richardson, Lieut. R. E. Byrd, Lieut. G. C. Chevalier, and Maj. B. L. Smith of the Marine Corps.

Navigation instruments to be used on the planes during the flight will be furnished by the Naval Observatory, which is under the Bureau of Navigation. Officers of this bureau have worked out a number of improvements in instruments used before and during the war, and these are expected to prove of great value in the flight.

The Office of Communications is charged with working out details of wireless communication between the planes and the destroyers which are to assist in the flight, while assignment of the destroyers and their arrangement at sea is left to Rear Admiral C. P. Plunkett, commander of the destroyer force, acting under the direction of Admiral Henry T. Mayo, Commander in Chief of the fleet. Selection of the vessels needed in the flight, in addition to the destroyers, is to be made by the Bureau of Operations.

Charts for the Flight.
An important part of the preparations falls to the Hydrographic Office of the Bureau of Navigation, where charts and data are prepared for the aid of the transatlantic flight section.

Reports as to weather conditions on the flight course are received from many different sources, including naval and other vessels, and this feature of the work alone will form an interesting chapter of the complete story of the flight preparations to be told after the planes start from Newfoundland.

The Bureau of Navigation also is charged with supplying the personnel under Lieut. M. S. Brown. Officers and men who will man the planes when they start from Rockaway Beach, Long Island, have not yet been definitely selected.

There are only three of the special N. S. type machines designed for this undertaking, and it is probable that only two will start. Each will carry not more than six men. There is a growing belief in the Navy Department that Commander Twers, who was one of the first of the navy air pilots, will be the fleet commander, and that Lieut. Bellinger will be assigned as a pilot in one of the planes.

Try This for Economy

If your stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and blood are not right in every sense, you should at once begin a treatment to restore good, healthy conditions. Sulphur, cream of tartar and herb extracts in a sugar-coated form, called Sulphur Tablets, is the surest relief that is economical. Get them in sealed tubes from druggists. Sulphur is the name—not "sulphur." Mrs. J. J. Devlin, 518 W. 132d St., New York City, writes: "I would also like to say I find your Sulphur Tablets O. CHURCH TRIAL OF PASTOR BEGINS

Rev. Dr. P. G. Spangler of Collinsville Under 27 Charges.

The trial of the Rev. Dr. P. G. Spangler, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Collinsville, Ill., charged by 15 members of his congregation with not holding strictly to the Baptist doctrine, excluding Baptist literature from the Sunday School, permitting the Baptist young people to scatter to other churches, and criticizing leaders of the church, began yesterday before the Alton District Baptist Association. Twenty-seven charges have been preferred against the pastor by the 15 church members.

The Rev. Dr. Twing of Alton is presiding at the trial, which is being held in Collinsville. Spangler appeared at the trial and stated he was not guilty of the charges against him. He characterized the charges as an attempt to drive him from the Collinsville pastorate. Other members of the church declared those who brought the charges were "trying to put something over."

Moses Helscher, 2504 North Grand avenue, who used to style himself "Moses the Second," was fined $200 today by Provisional Judge Watson in police court on a charge of conducting the business of a clairvoyant. He denied the charge, introduced witnesses to show that he was pastor of a Church of Spiritualism, and when the court's decision was rendered, announced that he would appeal to the Court of Criminal Correction.

Police-woman Gifford was the principal witness. "I donned a mourning veil," she testified, "and told Helscher my mother was dead. She is still alive. He told me there was a cloud over my mother's spirit and offered to remove it for $25. I told him I had only $2. You wouldn't give up electricity and go back to candles

Those who have used electricity would not go back to candles, and matches would not be discarded for flint and steel. Neither would those who have tasted G. Washington's Coffee return to the old, uneven, unreliable, wasteful and slovenly methods of preparing coffee by hand. It is pure coffee, absolutely soluble, retaining all the delicious flavor and effect and made in the cup at the table.

MISS JANE DELANO DIES IN PARIS

Red Cross Nursing Director Trained Nurses for Army. Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 18.—A cablegram received yesterday by the Atlantic Division of the Red Cross gave particulars of the death in Paris on April 15 of Miss Jane A. Delano, Director of the Department of Nursing of the American Red Cross. Miss Delano was taken ill while making a survey of Red Cross nursing operations in France, and underwent several operations. She was born at Watkins, N. Y., in 1862, and reared by her grandfather, a Baptist minister, her father having been killed in the Civil War. She served without pay.

When the American Red Cross, following its reorganization in 1905, entered into an agreement with the American Nurses Association to develop nurses for the Army Nursing Corps, Miss Delano was put in charge of the work. Due to her efforts 8000 selected nurses were available when we entered the war, and under her leadership 20,000 trained nurses were recruited for the army and navy. She was three times president of the American Nurses Association and served as head of the Directorate of the American Journal of Nursing.

NEW CONSTITUTION NOW SQUARELY UP TO REPUBLICANS

Senate Passes Measure Calling Election, 21 to 11, After Short Filibuster by Elder and Gardner.

G. O. P. OPPOSES IT ON POLITICAL GROUND

Chairman Cole Says Democrats Would Control Convention Some Chance for Legislation.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 18.—If the movement for a new Constitution in Missouri results in failure, the responsibility will rest entirely with the Republican majority in the House and the Republican State organization, which has influenced the House members to oppose it. The Democratic Senate last night passed the bill calling a constitutional convention election the first Tuesday in September, and put the issue squarely up to the Republicans.

A short filibuster, which for a time threatened to continue all night, was conducted in the Senate by Senators Elder of St. Louis, Bronson of Christian County and Gardner of St. Louis County, all Republicans, but they abandoned the effort after an hour, and permitted the calling up of the new Constitution bill. With little debate the measure was passed. Senator Anderson of St. Louis was the only Republican who voted for it, and Senators Greene and Casey of Kansas City were the only Democrats who opposed it.

Cole Opposed to Measure. Notwithstanding the Senate action, the measure is doomed to fail unless the House Republicans rescind their caucus taken at the instance of Chairman Cole of the Republican State Committee, in opposition to the measure. The Republicans so far have acted from purely a partisan political standpoint and have been successful in preventing the convening of the House from even being reported from the committee.

The Republican objection is based entirely upon the fact that a convention which would write a new Constitution would consist of delegates chosen according to the present senatorial districting of the State. The present Constitution specifies that a constitutional convention shall be formed of two delegates from each senatorial district. According to the present districting, there are only 12 districts which are safely Republican, while there are 22 which are Democratic. On this basis, in a convention, there would be 44 Democrats and 24 Republicans. Chairman Lay of the House Committee on Constitutional Amendments has given as the reason for the refusal of the committee to put out the Constitution bill that the Republicans will not consent to the holding of a constitutional convention, basing his argument before the caucus on the political districting grounds.

Roll Call on Measure. Senator Gray of Jasper County opposed the bill on the ground of the cost of holding an election. Elder opposed it on the districting ground. The roll call follows:

For a new constitution: Anderson, Bowler, Brown, Broderick, Buford, Cook, Cunningham, Duncan, Glick, Goodson, Harris, Harrison, Kinney, Livesay, Lysaght, McClintic, McCullough, McGruder, McKnight, Mayes, Stark—21.

Against a new constitution: Belken, Bronson, Casey, Elder, Gardner, Gray, Greene, Pickett, Seneker, Warner, Young—11.

Absent—Depelheuer, Wix. Chairman Cole of the Republican State Committee has been in Jefferson City frequently during the session of the Legislature and has attended the House caucuses. He has advised strongly against the holding of a constitutional convention, basing his argument before the caucus on the political districting grounds.

CROIX DE GUERRE RECEIVED

Lieut. Harold H. Tittmann Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Tittmann, 5024 Westminster place, who returned from France last December wearing a Distinguished Service Cross, has since been awarded the Croix de Guerre, which was received at his home yesterday. He has been at Walter Reed Hospital at Washington, D. C., since he returned to America.

Lieut. Tittmann's citations were in recognition of his bravery in attacking seven German planes on July 1, 1918. During the encounter he was shot through the left lung, and when his machine alighted among some wire entanglements his right leg was torn off and his left leg and right arm were broken in many places. He is a graduate of Yale University, and entered the air service in 1917.

Shall We Give "Our Little Brown Brothers" Their Independence?

Philippine independence is "almost in sight," President Wilson by letter assures the delegation of forty Filipinos who have come to this country to persuade the American people that the time has arrived for the birth of a Philippine Republic. And Secretary Baker, who read the President's letter to the delegation, added, "I trust that the day is very close at hand."

While many newspapers predict that the Filipinos' request will be granted, there are others that are not in favor of the idea. The Boston Transcript, for instance, characterizes the attitude of the administration as "inviting rebellion in the Philippines," while the New York Tribune declares that "this is no time for experiment."

The leading article in this week's LITERARY DIGEST—April 19th—is an illuminating presentation of public opinion upon this problem. You will also find many other interesting articles in this number, among which are:

At sunrise on Monday, April 21st, America fires the first shot in the Victory Liberty Loan campaign, and its reverberations will be heard throughout the length and breadth of the land. The enthusiastic response to former calls of the Government for money to conduct the war convinced Germany and the world that America was in deadly earnest, that our people were in this war to win and were determined to see the job through at whatever cost. Now that the war is won we must go just one step farther and furnish the money to pay the last instalment on the debt that has rolled up and to

To Raise British Censorship. PARIS, April 18.—British censorship on mails to the United States and Northern European neutral states probably will be removed within a fortnight as a result of friendly negotiations with British representatives here. This action will involve the reimposition of American censorship for these mails in order to prevent the dissipation of German securities.

FRANK GOULD GETS DIVORCE IN FRANCE

Wife, Former Edith Kelly, Actress, Enters Claim for Half of Gould's Fortune.

By the Associated Press. PARIS, April 18.—A decision dissolving the marriage of Frank Jay Gould and Mrs. Edith Kelly Gould was handed down Thursday in the civil court at Versailles. Mrs. Gould failed to appear in court, although she entered a claim for about one-half of Mr. Gould's fortune. The Paris edition of the New York Herald says it learns from Mr. Gould's lawyer that the divorce decree will become absolute in a few months unless Mrs. Gould appeals.

Gould is living in his country home at Maisons-Lafitte, near Paris, where are his racing stables. Mrs. Gould has been living in Paris since their separation.

Mrs. Gould was Miss Edith Kelly, an actress. Her marriage to Gould, which took place in Paris in June, 1910, was made known a month later. Gould's first wife was Miss Helen Kelly, granddaughter of the late Eugene Kelly of New York. Her marriage to Gould took place 14 years ago. They were divorced in 1900. Mrs. Gould subsequently was married to Ralph T. Thomas of New York, who died soon after their wedding. Last November she was married in New York to Prince Nour-edin Viora, an Albanian nobleman. The Misses Helen and Dorothy Gould, daughters of Gould and his first wife, live with Mrs. Finley J. Shepard, their aunt.

NEGRO CHECK RAISER MULCTS MANY FIRMS

MOULTRIE, Ga., April 18.—A number of Moultrie business houses have been stung with checks during the past few weeks by a negro giving his name as Robert Jones, Henry Johnson and various other aliases. The negro, who has disappeared, is also being hunted by Federal officers on the charge of robbing post-office boxes here. It is said that he robbed some 12 or 15 boxes early last month when business houses were getting in checks.

These checks were taken, the names of the firm to which they were made payable were erased and they were then made payable to "cash." The negro would then go to a store, buy some small article and get the balance in cash.

One check was for nearly $200, payable to a local livestock dealer, and was mailed by a Doerun man. The negro erased the name of the livestock dealer and substituted one of his numerous aliases, and went to Albany, where he sought to have it cashed at a bank. His request was refused, but the bank asked him to leave it for collection. The negro assented, and when it reached the bank on which it was drawn it was paid. A day or so later the negro went to Albany and received the money. He then skipped out and no trace of him has been found.

LYNCHING SOWS SEEDS OF DEGRADATION, SAYS O'NEAL

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 18.—"Work, whether on farms or in shop, if done with skill and intelligence, is education," former Gov. O'Neal of Alabama said in making the principal address at the third annual Founder's day exercises at Tuskegee Institute. Education which does not better fit those who receive it for the labor of life is of no value, he said.

Gov. O'Neal spoke on "What Booker T. Washington Meant to the South, and the Duty of the South to the Negro." He referred to the friendship between himself and the former head of Tuskegee Institute, and after a tribute to him, turned to the "South's Duty to the Negro." "The community which encourages or permits lynching openly or tacitly and refuses to visit the death penalty upon the lyncher when his guilt is established," said O'Neal, "is but sowing the seeds which breed moral degradation and insecurity of life and property."

ARMY BEAN AS HOG FEED

CHINO, Cal., April 18.—Chino ranchers, many of whom "made fortunes" from their bean crops during the war, have announced their intention of feeding 1,000,000 pounds of beans to hogs this year, thus transmitting 3-cents-a-pound beans into 17-cents-a-pound pork.

In the Ventura lima bean section and other bean centers there has been agitation on the part of the farmers to get the Government to recompense patriotic growers who put all of their land in beans in order to feed the soldiers. Shoring off of the demand has made the bottom drop out of the market.

But the Chino farmers, under the leadership of W. J. Tebo, believe that the State ranchers can solve their own difficulties via the hog route.

Farmers Would Be in Claque. By the Associated Press.

DENVILLE, Colo., April 18.—Resolutions were adopted at the closing session yesterday of the national convention of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America asking for representation of farmers on the league of nations. Other resolutions adopted expressed opposition to conscription and universal military training in time of peace. The immediate repeal of the daylight saving law was advocated.

When You Have a Talented GuestTHE Invitation
With a String to It.

By Sophie Irene Loeb.

THE other evening I sat at dinner next to a girl whom I knew by reputation as a talented singer. During our conversation I learned that she was worried for fear she would be asked to sing. She told me how all day she had been working very hard and how tired she was, and that she did not want to sing, especially after a meal and yet dreaded the ordeal of refusing.

And, sure enough, after the dinner a number of the guests insisted on her showing off her talent. It was, indeed, with great difficulty and considerable embarrassment that she "got out of it."

With a great sigh of relief, she turned to me later and said: "I do hope that they will not ask me to do it again. I want to sing and I want to do my best."

"I hate to appear to be rude, and yet I want to relax and have a good time like the other people, without having to try to live up to my record when I least feel like it."

It is truly remarkable how inconsiderate people are of their talented guests. It is certainly unfair to insist that a person who has talent should have nothing to do but get ready for the party, and entertain them through the efforts of another invited guest who has doubtless worked hard all day at his talent.

After all, it is a poor compliment to invite anybody to your home and then ask him or her to entertain your guests.

It is a very little removed from asking them to pay for their invitation. People, especially professionals, resent this, and rightfully.

There is no more reason for you to invite Mary Nightingale to your home to dinner and insist on her singing than it is for you to ask Mr. Moneybags to bring his books and show you how he makes his money.

An invitation to a talented person should not imply an obligation to show what he can do.

On the contrary, the host or hostess who really aims to please her guests takes special care to make them see that her interest is to entertain them and not that they do the entertaining.

I have always found that the best way to treat talented people or professionals, whose daily or nightly grind is entertaining, is to let them alone—to do as they please; and nine out of ten they will voluntarily do their share of being agreeable even to the point of presenting their specialty.

As a general proposition true artists love their work, and when they have to live up to it they are only too delighted to let the people get pleasure out of their performance.

As one great pianist said to me, "I love to play for people whom I think want me to play, but I hate to do it when it is expected of me as a part of the evening's program."

A "funny" man, a stage celebrity, gives an instance of how he was invited to dinner and found one of the members of the family with a pad and pencil to take down all he said.

True hospitality in the last analysis lies in making a person feel the pleasure of being entertained, even though he himself contributes to the entertaining.

It is a poor invitation that has a string attached of obligation.

THE SANDMAN STORY
FOR TONIGHT.

By MRS. F. A. WALKER

The Doggie Family and Topsy Cat.

TOPSY CAT was a very bothersome creature to the Doggie family living near by. She was always finding some way to bother the well-bred Doggies, for Topsy did not care at all for well-behaved people.

Sometimes she would run over in Mrs. Doggie's flower garden and roll in the catnip bed, crushing the pretty flowers Mrs. Doggie had taken such care of, and when Mr. Doggie would chase her, which was what Topsy wanted.

Over the fence she would spring, and Mr. Doggie would bark, for he was too big to jump the high fence and Topsy knew it, and there she would sit and laugh and jump her back while Mr. Doggie would almost bark his head off.

One day while Topsy was sitting by the fence in the sun she saw a sight that filled her with so much envy that her eyes turned green, and that is where the green-eyed cat comes from. I expect they are relatives of Topsy's.

There was Mrs. Doggie in a brand new dress of plaid silk, green and yellow, trimmed with red, her bonnet was pink with waving blue feathers and a ribbon of black tied under her chin and she carried a red parasol.

Mr. Doggie wore a plaid suit and a tall hat, while little Doggie wore a spick-and-span suit of white with a cap to match.

"Now, why should they have good clothes and I have none?" thought Topsy, her eyes growing greener every minute. "It would not care a pin about all the other fine things, but I would dearly love to have that red parasol."

Topsy got up and stretched herself, whisked her tail about, and then she jumped the fence and disappeared on the other side of it.

The Doggie family walked along "Competent."

"You advertised for a reliable chauffeur?"

"I'd like to get the job."

"What are your qualifications?"

"Well, first, I know how to run a car."

"Should hope so."

"And, second, I testified in a breach-of-promise suit against my last employer and the show girl who brought suit didn't get a nickel."

"You are engaged?"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Prolonging Youth.

MEN and women always have sought the secret of prolonging their youth. Queen Elizabeth tried to make herself look young and giddy by adorning her scrawny features with a large, red wig about the color of an October sunset, but she did not fool anybody.

There is really a secret method of perpetuating the golden days of youth it does not consist of wearing tricks that nestle loosely about the ears, or in dyeing the aural hairs of nature with a bottle of hair dye. The secret of retaining youth, if such a secret really exists, is entirely in the mind.

If you would remain young, learn to think young, to forget about growing old. Learn to laugh and play.

Proof of this is found in the theatrical profession. William H. Crane, past 70, is successful and active. Lily Langtry, the beautiful "Jersey Lily," looks like a young woman at 66. Robert Hilliard, dapper and debonaire, is nearly 60 and has the very dignified and proud, but when it came to the corner his manner changed, for there, right in front of him, was Topsy, with her back humped and her tail all bristling.

HER eyes flashed and she hissed in the most aggravating manner. It was too much for even the dignified Doggie family to bear. Topsy got all its fine clothes and chased Topsy.

Around the corner went Topsy and after her all three Doggies; up and down through the town they went. And then Topsy went over a high fence, and was over.

That is the chase was ended, but Topsy kept right on running, for had she not seen as she looked back once, the red parasol on the ground where Mrs. Doggie had dropped it in her hurry?

The Doggie family was sorrowfully walking to its home, in fine clothes no longer, but all mud and torn, when Mrs. Doggie happened to look up and there on the top of a fence before her she saw her red parasol.

"Oh!" she screamed, "my parasol!"

Slowly the red parasol was raised and then the top of a black head was seen, then a pair of green eyes, not as green as they had been, though, but still green.

It was Topsy, of course, with Mrs. Doggie's parasol. Mrs. Doggie began to bark, Mr. Doggie began to bark, and little Doggie began to bark, and before Topsy knew it all the dogs for a mile around were there.

It was no use; she must drop the red parasol and run for her life, and she knew she could escape if she did not have the parasol, so she tucked it out from under her arm where they could all see it, and ran along the top of a shed and up on the roof to a tree.

Down the tree she went and was soon safe in her own home, but she did not think about the thought that she had spoiled the Doggies' fine clothes, and also had a nice time sitting on the fence with the red parasol over her head.

Holding the tip of her tail in one paw and with the other held over her head, Topsy began to dance.

Round and around she whirled, singing as she danced, and as the fire light from the fireplace fell on her shining black coat Topsy knew she did not need a red parasol to set off her good looks.

MUCH NEEDED INVENTIONS.

Something (by Easter) to Make Parading in Hobble Skirts a Little Less Tiring to the Ladies.

ROBERT LEMEN

Fashion Makes Miladi a "Bird of Fine Feathers"

THIS year it's the feathers that bloom in the spring, trailing instead of the flowers. For the very smartest trimming on Paris frocks for afternoon—elegant or street wear is feathers—chiefly ostrich plumes. It is to be hoped the ostriches will not yield to the prevailing unrest and go on strike, for since the days of "willow plumes" have their feathers been in such widespread demand as just now.

They make a most effective garnish for evening gowns. They are used as a border for décolletage, and the half-curved flues make a novel fringe for the skirt draperies. Small bunches of ostrich tips are placed smartly on the hips.

And the bunches of tips are used in another novel arrangement. They take the place of the clusters of artificial flowers or fruit formerly pinned at one side of the bodice to set it off. Tips of three or four different colors are put together, and the result is a unique bouquet.

On capes the feathers take the place of fur worn during winter. They are shaped into huge, high collars that frame delightfully pretty faces, standing out like an Elizabethan ruff. One such cape, worn by a blonde, was of pale pink chiffon lined with a soft old blue, bordered with a feather fringe and with a high collar of the fragile, fluttering ostrich flues.

The evening frocks literally are sprouting wings. One such dress, in a smart shop window in Paris, was constructed of soft yellow silk, the skirt and bodice gracefully draped. Bunches of ostrich feathers were sewed on the flounce, on the ends of the sash and at the back of the skirt—almost like a bustle. And on each shoulder-strap perched tiny feather wings.

Cocks' plumage also is worn on some smart Parisian frocks, instead of the plumes of the ostrich.

If Lamb and Lion Fight Former Says "Good Night."

The little town was all excitement. The circus had arrived. The chief attraction of the circus was the case in which the lion lay down with the lamb. An old gentleman started asking the proprietor questions.

"Do those two ever quarrel?" he asked.

"Well," admitted the proprietor, "they are not always peaceful. Sometimes they have a bit of a scrap."

"Oh, then," said the proprietor, "we generally buy another lamb."

"Yes, she lives with us. I tease her a good deal."

"What about?"

"Oh, anything handy—whatever's easy to tease an old maid about."

"Doesn't she mind?"

"She usually has sort of a grouse on me," laughed George. "Nothing much. That's our house just beyond grandfather's." An Epic of the Rise of an American City

By BOOTH TARKINGTON.

CHAPTER VII.

THE appearance of Miss Lucy Morgan the next day, as she sat in George's fast cutter, proved so charming that her escort was stricken to soft words instantly, and failed to control a poetic impulse.

Her rich little hair was trimmed with black fur, her hair was almost as dark as the fur, a great sea of black fur was about her shoulders; her hands were vanished into a black muff; and George's laprobe was black. "You look like—" he said.

"Your face looks like—it looks like a snowflake on a lump of coal. I mean a—snowflake that would be a rose-leaf, too!"

"Perhaps you'd better look at the reins," she returned. "We almost upset just then."

George declined to heed this advice. "Because there's too much pink in your cheeks for a snowflake," he continued. "What's that fairy story about snow-white and rose-red?"

"We're going pretty fast, Mr. Mainer."

"Well, you see, I'm only here for two weeks."

"I mean the sleigh," she explained. "We're not the only people on the street, you know."

"Oh, they'll keep out of the way," said George. "That's very patrician characterizing. It seems to me a horse like this needs guidance. I'm sure he's going almost 20 miles an hour."

"That's nothing," said George, but he consented to look forward again. "He can trot under three minutes, all right," he laughed. "I suppose your father thinks he can build a horseless carriage to go that fast."

"They go that fast already, sometimes."

"Yes," said George. "they do—for about a hundred feet! Then they give a yell and burn up."

Evidently she decided not to defend her father's faith in horseless carriages, for she laughed, and said nothing. The cold air was polka-dotted with snowflakes, and trembled to the loud, continuous jingling of sleighbells. Boys and girls, all aglow and panting jets of vapor, darted at the passing sleighs to ride all the runners, and sought to rope their sleds to any vehicle whatever, but the fleetest no more than just touched the flying cutter, though a hundred soggy mittens grasped for it, then recoiled and whirled, till sometimes the wearers of those daring mittens plunged flat in the snow and lay asprawl, reflecting. For this was the holiday time, and all the boys and girls in town were out, most of them on National Avenue.

But there came panting and chugging up that flat thoroughfare a thing which some day was to spoil all their sleigh-time merriment—save for the rashest and most disobedient. It was vaguely like a topless surrey, but cumbersome with unwholesome excrescences fore and aft, while underneath were spinning leather belts and something that whirled and howled and seemed to attempt to fasten their sleds to a contrivance no nonsensical and yet so fearsome. Instead, they gave over their sport and concentrated all their energies in their lungs, so that up and down the street the one cry shrilled, increased: "Git a hoss! Git a hoss! Git a hoss! Mister, why don't you git a hoss?" But the machine in charge, sitting solitary on the front seat, was unconcerned—he laughed, and now and then ducked a snowball without losing any of his good nature. It was Mr. Eugene Morgan who exhibited so cheerful a countenance between the forward visor of a deer-stalker cap and the collar of fuzzy gray ulster. "Git a hoss!" the children shrieked, and gruffer voices joined them. "Git a hoss! Git a hoss! Git a hoss!"

George Mainer was correct thus far, the 12 miles an hour of such a machine, never overtake George's trotter. The cutter was already scurrying between the stogie pillars at the entrance to Amberson mansion.

"I ought to know that," Lucy exclaimed. "We stayed there 'till the last night of Papa and I were almost the last to go. You will like the apple tarts better if you sprinkle the cut-up fruit with lemon juice before putting in the crust. A few cloves and bit of butter will further improve it.

Browned flour for gravies as sauces is essential in every well-equipped kitchen. To prepare the spread the flour about half an inch deep in a baking pan, place it in a steady oven and stir constantly. When brown let it get cold before placing it in a jar or tin. It should be tightly covered.

The water in which potatoes have been boiled will take out coffee and tea stains if the linen is soaked in it before being washed.

Some housewives have an idea that shell protects an egg against taint from absorbing odors. This is a mistake. On the contrary, eggs are quite susceptible to odors and should never be kept near strong flavored foods. Convince yourself by placing an onion and egg together in the refrigerator.

If when pouring hot fat into a dish an equal quantity of boiling water is added all the particles of meat and gristle will settle at the bottom and clear white drippings will result.

people boycott the families that sell part of their yards that way. All he'd have to do would be to tell the tradespeople they wouldn't get any more orders from the family if they didn't do it.

"From the family? What family?"

"Our family," said George, unperturbed. "The Ambersons."

"I see!" she murmured, and evidently she did see something that he did not, for, as she lifted her muff to her face, he asked:

"What are you laughing at now?"

"Why?"

"You always seem to have some little secret of your own to get happy over!"

"Always!" she exclaimed. "What a big word, when we only met last night!"

MARKET AND FINANCIAL NEWS

TRADE CONTINUES TO INCREASE

Exports in March Worth $605,000, 000; Imports, $268,000, 000.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Continued increase in the foreign trade of the United States was shown in statistics made public today by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. Exports in March were valued at $605,000,000, as compared with $588,000,000 in February, 1919, and $522,000,000 in March of last year. For the nine months of the fiscal year ending with March, the exports were worth $4,991,000,000, as compared with $4,600,000,000 in the corresponding period of last year.

Needless Alarm.

Junior had not been in the best of health, and when he seemed well on the way to recovery, his mother took extra precautions to guard him against possibilities of an influenza attack. One evening the anxious mother was startled, when she entered Junior's room, to find the little chap in bed, sniffling, with eyes red and watery. "Goodness gracious!" she cried. "Do you feel sick, dearie?" "No, mamma," Junior replied. "But you seem to have caught a dreadful cold." "I haven't any cold." "But your nose and eyes!" "From under the covers Junior produced a book. "It is 'Uncle Tom's Cabin,' mamma," he said, "and I have just been reading about poor little Eva."—Youngstown Telegram.

Have you some old Photograph faded perhaps, or a kodak snapshot of someone dear of whom you have no other picture? We can work wonders with such pictures in copying them and enlarging them, incidentally improving them to a remarkable extent. We will be glad to show you some of the work we have done, and give you an opinion of what may be done with some precious picture you have.

Alarmed Expectancy.

ANNE RITTENHOUSE cordially indorses the hip-length tunic, and, inasmuch as we never have got it into our head whether the tunic is a waist or gown, one can imagine our trepidation as we go about our daily tasks. —Ohio State Journal.

Fully Prepared.

"S O you wish to leave to get married, Mary? I hope you have given the matter a serious consideration." "Oh, I have, sir," was the earnest reply. "I have been to two fortune tellers and a clairvoyant, and looked in a sign book, and dreamed on a lock of his hair, and have been to one of those astrologers and to a medium, and they all tell me to go ahead, sir. I ain't no to marry reckless like, sir."—Household Words.
